House Investigating Body Asks Impeachment of Attorney-General—Guess I's House Will Not Vote Charges, Realizing that Bilbo, If Charges Sustained, Would Name Successor.

Grenada Sentinel:
The Capitol building has had a depressed atmosphere this week. Both factions in the legislature, save so to speak, been resting on their arms. Gov. Bilbo has had those legislators which train with him at the Governor's Mansion and many times has been loitered with various ones of his political friends in the executive office.

Lt. Gov. Bidwell Adam's compromise road bill proved to be a astard. Mr. Adam refused to own it himself. The senate has been evoting time to another bill which they seem to know that the house will kill as quickly as it can, to the legislative hall. Gov. Bilbo is holding his grip on the senate but from the record vote time or two of late, one would conclude that his hold on the senate is slipping, in other words, he majority there against him is decreasing.

Gov. Bilbo has not yet made public the auditing report which he said in a public speech some week ago would show a deficit of $60,000 in one office. Many assert that they know what office the Governor is referring to, nevertheless for reason, best known to himself, he still has the report tucked away.

Many things are hinted at as probably being brought before the legislature among these is the question of raising revenue. Some sponsor the statement that the Governor is going to propose a sales tax. If he does, another verbal appear will echo from one end of the state to the other.

The big question now uppermost is the report of the committee of the lower house named nearly a year ago to investigate the office of Attorney General Rush Knox and the official acts of Capt. Cecil Inman while he was the head of the tax commission in conjunction with Knox. It was evidently in the mind of the originator of the resolutions, to make the investigation that Knox could not have done what he did, that he could not have known of much of it, without the aid of Capt. Inman. The investigating committee made its report Wednesday and by a vote of 8 to 1, asked for the impeachment of the Attorney General. The minority member, Hon. Jerry Coleman, of Carroll county, held that Knox had not violated the law. It is claimed that the committee did not vote on factional lines, and that there are several most pronounced men on the committee who have little patience with Gov. Bilbo. Capt. Inman cannot be impeached for the reason that he is out of office. The gossip is that he will be called to account before the courts and that his bond of $100,000 will be adequate to take care of any charge against him as to funds.

The constitution requires a two-thirds vote to vote impeachment charges. The best guess is that the house will not furnish that many votes for the impeachment of the Attorney General next Tuesday. One of the main reasons, as your correspondent gets it, why the necessary two-thirds vote will not materialize, is the fact that should the senate sustain the charges, Gov. Bilbo would name Knox's successor, therefore many far-seeing men in the house hold that it is better to endure the ills that are than to risk what they think Gov. Bilbo would inflict on the state in naming one of his partisans attorney general. The best bet at this writing is that the matter will be deferred until the regular January term or referred to the courts where both criminal and civil proceedings can be had. There are many who do not believe that the Attorney General did a deliberate wrong. The law, these say, which was passed in 1924, gave the attorney general right to sue and fixed his commissions. Gen. Knox has been regarded as one of the state's most popular men and many of his friends are evidently going to make themselves heard in his behalf in these impeachment charges.

To say the least of it, the present situation is a most unfortunate thing for the state viewed from many angles. To many it appears to be a case of tit for tat, you hit my dog and I'll hit your cat. Looking backward it seems to have been a bad piece of legislation to have enacted the statute upon which the attorney general proceeded. The bridge was just taken off.

FREQUENT RAINS PROVE DAMAGING TO COTTON

The rains of the past week cast a gloom over the bright prospects for a cotton crop in this immediate section. The rainfall during the past ten days, has been unusually heavy total for the month of July being 7.76 inches. The rains serve to increase the activities of the boll weevil and come at the very time when cotton needs sunshine and even weather. Besides the weevil, many report blight and still many more that there is much shedding. Cotton always does a deal of shedding, however, most of it occurs during the month of August. Up to one week ago, this section was enjoying the brightest prospect for a cotton crop that it has had for fifteen years or more. But the corn crop is good, splendid, and there is promise of much hay and other feed stuff which will take care of the dairy cows through the winter.

In some sections of the cotton belt, complaint is made that there is a want of rain and, in a few localities, a drought is reported. The next two weeks will fix the cotton yield of this section for the year 1929.

Whitfield Analyzes High Mortality Rate

Director of Bureau of Vital Statistics Cuts Down United States Figures Giving Mississippi Highest Ratio in Nation—Government Based Estimate on Old Census Figures Now Out of Date.

Jackson, Miss., July 25.—That Mississippi, with California, had the highest death rate in 1928 of the 38 states in the national registration areas is not viewed with alarm by Dr. R. N. Whitfield, director bureau vital statistics, Mississippi state board of health. Mississippi and California were tied for the dubious honor, with a rate of 14.5 per 1,000 population, according to figures released today by the federal bureau of census, while the lowest rate in the area was that of Idaho with 7.4.

The chief contributing factor to Mississippi's high rate, according to Dr. Whitfield, is the fact that the government's figure was reached on the basis of the state's population figure for 1920, date of the last federal census—1,790,000. "Mississippi population showed a very little change between 1910 and 1920," Dr. Whitfield said, "and the government did not work on a later estimate in reaching the 1928 death figure."

"The same condition is true of births," Dr. Whitfield said. The census report showed Mississippi second only to North Carolina with a birth rate per 1,000 population of 26.8. The Carolina rate was 2.5. "Apparently, North Carolina, face, the same proposition," Dr. Whitfield explained; "its birth rate was highest in 1927 and Mississippi again was second."

Revises Rate Figure
According to an estimate by Dr. Whitfield, figuring Mississippi with a present population of 2,000,000 persons, the death rate per 1,000 would be but 12 as against 14.5 figure given. "It is safe to say we have annually 24,000 births in excess of deaths—in the past ten years this alone would give us a population of more than 2,000,000 without outside additions, which we know to have been made."

The government report reveals that, in 1928 the birth rate for the registration area was 19.7 against 20.7 in 1927. The lowest rate of all states reporting was that of Washington, 14.4. Likewise, generally, an increase in 36 of the 38 states was shown in the death rate. 12.3 in 1928 against 11.4 in 1927.

The division of the report regarding infant mortality rates showed that the highest was in Arizona, 142.2 deaths under 1 year per 1,000 births. The lowest rate was registered by Oregon, 46.9. The 1928 rate for Mississippi was 74.3 against a rate in 1927 of 66.8. The figures for the entire area were as follows: 1928 68.8, 1927 64.6.

Greenville Heads List
In a study of Mississippi cities, the federal report shows the infant mortality rate was highest in Greenville, 119 deaths under 1 year per 1,000 births, with Jackson second with 101.6 and Vicksburg next with 100.4. The lowest rate in the city class was that of Natchez, 67.1. These figures compare with 1927 figures as follows: Greenville 124.3, Jackson 77, Vicksburg 86.6, Natchez 77.2.

Another factor that tends to raise the death rate, according to Dr. Whitfield, as far as Mississippi is concerned, is the rigid requirements of filling of death certificates with the state bureau. A very nearly 100 per cent reporting system for deaths has been built up by the bureau, the director stated, and some states in the area have not as yet been able to secure as complete files.

Births in Mississippi for 1928 were 48,034 and deaths 25,900.

FORMER GRENADIAN DISCUSSES HIGHWAYS

H. G. Talbert Writes from McMinnville, Tenn., Telling of Benefit Derived from Permanent Highways in That Section—Thinks Mississippi Should Not Delay Road Construction.

Editor Sentinel:

It has been some time since I have troubled you, but I am still interested in Mississippi and have always been interested in good roads, so I am going to tell you some things I have seen and know of my own knowledge on the subject and tell you some things I have read about the results of good roads. You can tell which is which. You may publish this if you like. If you do not it will not make the least difference to me, or you can use any part of it you want.

When I first came here, nearly six years ago, we had worse roads, if such a thing is possible, than those you now have in Mississippi. At that time it took 15 gallons of gas to haul 40 cases of drinks to Sparta, and bring back the empties. Now we have an asphalt road to haul over, and I carry 100 cases and bring the empties back and use less than 5 gallons of gas for the trip. The gas cost me 25c per gallon including a 3c tax. What is my net tax on that trip? The saving on tires is as much, or more than on gas. Before we got good roads, if a car came through here with license from another state, it was new. Every one in town would hear about it. Last week the highway department had the cars coming in over the two highways checked and during that week cars from every state in the union, except five, passed through beside one from Cuba, and five from Canada.

As every one around here knows where I am from, I frequently have some one asking about the road to Memphis. If they are going west of the river I try to route them through Mississippi. They invariably tell me, "No sir, they have no roads through there, we are not going that way."

From what Mr. J. W. Gray says in The Sentinel of last week, he seems to think that the tourists use the roads of a state without paying anything for them. He is mistaken. I read the annual report of the highway department of North Carolina last year. They have the best roads, and a great many more tourists than any other state in the South. This report claimed that the tax paid on gas, alone, by tourists, more than paid twice the interest on the highway bonds of the state and the total tax collected on gas and cars, trucks, etc. was more than the total expense of the state government including what the state paid for schools. Of course this tax had to go to pay the interest on the road bonds, the upkeep of the roads and in retiring road bonds.

As to how Mississippi shall build road, I have no suggestion but you certainly should build them. Mr. Pressgrove is right; the concrete road is the best and cheapest in the long run.

With best wishes for the editor personally, and for The Sentinel, I am,

H. G. TALBERT.

PERRIN GOODSON DIED IN GREENWOOD

Mention was made in these columns last week of the serious injury from a truck sustained by Mr. Perrin Goodson, of Leflore. He died in the King's Daughter's Hospital at Greenwood, July 26. His remains were brought to Holcomb where funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. J. Woods of the Methodist church. Interment was had in the burying ground near there. The Sentinel extends sympathy to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Goodson.

MUCH OF BUSINESS WILL COME BEFORE CLUB TODAY

The Young Men's Business Club, which will hold its first annual meeting today (Friday) at noon in the basement of the Methodist Church, will have several matters of business to attend to, it is understood. Therefore, a full attendance of the membership is earnestly desired so that these matters may be given the proper attention.

At the meeting of the Rotary Club Tuesday a committee from that body was named to appear before the Young Men's Business Club to take up the question of creosote entering local streams from the plant of the Ayer & Lord Tie Co. It is understood too that two gentlemen have requested an audience before the club to intercede in the purchase of some advertising in one of the Mississippi promotional publications.

Bishop James Cannon, Jr., Is Charged With Using Funds of Methodist Church

Methodist Minister Says Bishop Borrowed from Funds of Church in His Hands to Use in Campaign against Democrats—Bishop Says Money Promptly Repaid—Congressman Wants Investigation and Bishop Makes Answer. Pretty Kettle of Fish for Church.

Washington, July 25.—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., Anti-Saloon League Chief, was openly accused today of diverting Southern Methodist Church funds to unauthorized political purposes, and, in addition, of dictating public vindication of his actions by a hand-picked committee.

In a letter to the Lynchburg (Va.) News, Sen. Carter Glass' paper, made public today, Dr. Rembert C. Smith, a widely known Georgia Methodist pastor, declared the bishop has admitted using at least $10,000 of the funds of the Southern Methodist Church, board of temperance and social service, to finance the anti-Smith campaign in Virginia last fall.

The second of "two trespasses on the rights of the church," according to Dr. Smith, was the attempt of the temperance and social service board, of which the bishop is president, to whitewash their leader's Wall Street speculation in a resolution denouncing publication of the facts as a "wet" move for the "sole purpose of discrediting a great and influential leader."

"Disregarded Rights."
"The income of this board is secured," Dr. Smith pointed out, "as the result of an assessment levied on the church by the general conference and no action of the general conference warrants the use of it for the help of any political party or candidate, and to lend it or use it for such purposes is in violation of the laws of the church and in disregard of the inherent rights of the members of the church who give the money only for the purposes specified by the general conference."

"If every member of the church had desired the success of the Republican party and the election of Hoover, it would still have been improper to use this fund either by loan or by gift for the accomplishment of such purposes, for the people do not submit to the levies of the general conferences for political purposes."

"Inasmuch as a large number of the members of the church did not desire the success of the Republican party, or the election of Mr. Hoover, the lending of their money for these purposes was a violation of their inherent and inalienable rights."

Report, filed by the Virginia anti-Smith Democratic organization with the clerk of the House of Representatives last fall showed an aggregate of several thousand dollars loaned by the bishop, who, according to subsequent financial statements, was reimbursed as gifts from other contributors were received.

Denie, Right to Exonerate.
Flushed with the success of his campaign, which carried Virginia as well as North Carolina, Florida and Texas into the Republican column last November, Cannon organized the anti-Smith Democrats of the state. At a convention of the Hooverscrats, held at Roanoke, his choice, Prof. William Mosely Brown, was named as their candidate for Governor and subsequently, the state Republican organization indorsed Brown's candidacy.

In his statement today Dr. Smith denied the right of the Temperance and Social Service Board to investigate and exonerate their president.

"The law," Dr. Smith asserted, "does not permit a bishop or preacher under rumors of improper conduct himself, to select any committee for investigation. If the board at its recent meeting on its own motion went into this matter, it acted in violation, both of the letter and spirit of the law of the church, and if Bishop Cannon asked the board to investigate the matter and submitted evidence and documents, to it, he led the board into an illegal and improper inquiry."

New York, July 28.—Bishop James S. Cannon, Jr., chairman of the Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Southern Methodist Church, today issued a denial of a published statement that the board had loaned money to "bring about the election of Hoover to the presidency."

The charges were contained in a communication from Dr. Rembert C. Smith, of Washington, Ga. published in the Lynchburg (Va.) News, July 24.

The bishop's statement said that he "as an individual" and because he did not happen to have the money with him at the time, had borrowed funds, from Dr. Crawford, treasurer of the board, to pay for typing, addressing and mailing a statement setting forth the aims of the Asheville conference and "inviting certain persons to attend that conference to determine what course to pursue to prevent the betrayal of prohibi-

SISTERS COMPOSE TRIO TO ENTERTAIN ROTARIANS

Misses Eunice Marion, Alma Katherine and Ann Elizabeth Dubard, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Dubard, entertained the Grenada Rotary Club at its meeting Tuesday with a group of well-selected and well-rendered songs. They were accompanied at the piano by the gifted Miss Catherine Lufkin.

B. C. Adams, chairman of the boy's work committee, made a strong appeal to the club to take a greater interest in the work among the boys of the community and he pointed out how vital this work had proved in the lives of the youths.

R. W. Sharp, chairman of the attendance committee, stressed the importance of regular attendance upon the club's meetings and he said that he and his fellow-committeemen would use every effort to see that all delinquents made up their absences.

R. W. Jones, chairman of the community service committee, called upon the chairmen of the various committees named to visit different sections of this trade territory to mail him a report of their trips.

President B. J. Anderson appointed a committee to appear before the Young Men's Business Club at its meeting Friday to take up the matter of creosote entering local streams, a matter brought before the club last week by A. M. Smith, general superintendent of the Ayer & Lord Tie Co.

Curle Advises About Saving Of Feed Crops

Agent of Grenada County Farm Development Association Gives Timely Advice on Harvesting Feed Crops. Tells How to Have Green Feed in Winter Time. Should Sow Burr Clover Now.

Editor Sentinel:
Please give me space to try to present some things to our farmers.

The curing of hay, good hay is no simple matter but one of the greatest importance. Hay allowed to get over ripe and bleached by the sun and rain is no better than corn stover or good straw. While on the other hand, hay cut at the right stage in the plant's development, and properly cured, makes feed of high nutritive value, worth double or more than low grade badly cured hays. Grass hays, particularly lose much of their feed value if allowed to get too ripe. Sudan grass is rather a coarse hay plant and makes a better grade of hay if cut just before heading out, while the finer grasses are best cut in the bloom or just before blooming. Peas bloom for a long season. Matured seed and blooms may be found on the same plants at the same time. The leaves are the most valuable part of the plant, so it should be cut at a stage and cured in a manner to save the most of the leaves practicable. Soy beans also lose their leaves and shatter their seed if allowed to get too ripe, also the stalk or stems get hard and woody when too dry, therefore should be cut as soon as the earlier pods are full grown and before they lose their leaves and should not be allowed to lie too long on the ground as cut, but should be cured in windrows, or in shocks.

We have no silos to speak of in this section and most of us know the value of green feed for our cows during the winter, let's plant a good acreage of our cotton middle, this fall to a mixture of rye vetch and oats for fall grazing and for a winter cover crop for our land and for a green fertilizer crop to be turned under next spring. Also let's try some rutabaga turnips on a moist piece of ground, prepare the land well, fertilize good and sow in rows three feet wide, thin the plants to 6 or 8 inches apart. They can be so cheaply grown and are so easily harvested and stored for winter and the fact that all kinds of livestock like them makes them a crop that is well worthy of the attention of every farmer. Try a few and see what an excellent feed and food crop it is. Sow in early August, sow and handle in the same general way as turnips. When matured cut tops off and bank on well drained place as sweet potatoes.

August is the month for sowing southern Burr clover in our pastures. All that are interested in seeding this wonderful winter pasture plant are urged to be on hand at the next regular meeting which is next Tuesday, August 6; for listing the seed, and at that time we expect to have a speaker with us who is and authority on feeds and feeding. We want to urge you to be here at 9 o'clock upstairs, over Grenada Bank.

Respectfully,
W. C. CURLE,
Agent Grenada County Farm Development Association,

ORDERED TO PREVENT WASTE INTO STREAMS

Supervisors Pass Order Giving Ayer & Lord Tie Co. Six Months to Stop Drainage of Creosote into Bogue—Several from Leflore County Appear at Hearing Given Tie Plant Officials Saturday.

The Grenada County board of supervisors met in called session last Saturday morning to consider the alleged pollution of the streams of the county by creosote from the plant of the Ayer and Lord Tie Co., three miles south of Grenada.

The question of creosote in the river and other streams is one that has come up for public attention at intervals for a number of years. It has been claimed that fish were being killed by the chemical and that the finny tribe has been almost exterminated in streams, said to have been polluted from the tie plant. Other complaints have been made by landowners adjacent to Bogue Creek that their stock could not or would not drink the water from this stream on account of the quantity of creosote in it.

In addition to quite a number of Grenada countians there was quite a delegation from Leflore county interested in the matter who appeared before the board Saturday to add their voices to the protests against the alleged pollution. Those from Leflore county stated that they had taken the matter up with their supervisors and found that any action taken there would have to come through the state attorney general. At that time, they said, Mississippi was in the heat of a political campaign and the matter had not been given attention. They promised, however, that if Grenada county officials took no action they would press the matter themselves.

Various citizens gave expression to the damage they thought was being done by creosote entering Bogue Creek from the Ayer & Lord plant, how it affected the water as regards drinking it and how the fish were being killed.

W. B. Hoffa made an earnest plea in behalf of the Ayer & Lord Tie Co., pointing out the huge sums it had expended here in payrolls and materials since its location here, calling attention to the great number of people deriving their support from the plant and speaking of the immense amount of taxes accruing to the county by virtue of the plant, being situated in the county. Mr. Hoffa stated, without fear of contradiction, that the Ayer & Lord Tie Co. is the county's greatest asset in a commercial and industrial way. He said that it would be far better that every fish in the river be exterminated than lose the plant.

A. M. Smith, general superintendent of the Ayer & Lord Tie Co., made a most plausible and effective presentation of his company's side of the question. He discussed the matter from almost every angle and brought to the board's attention the different phases, presented in an interview with him which appeared in last week's Sentinel. Mr. Smith said that he did not believe that the fish were being killed by creosote but he said that he would not absolutely state that they were not. He mentioned the oils, greases and other wastes from garages and the sewage disposal entering the river, saying that these things might be doing the damage attributed to the chemical from his company's plant. He stated that the company had spent a great deal of money in its efforts to keep the creosote out of the streams and that they are ready and willing now to accept any sensible suggestion as to how to remedy the situation and that the company will spend still more money to stop the drainage into Bogue. Although Mr. Smith made no threat that the plant would move from this section he pointed out that such a step would be necessary if it were compelled to spend more than its gross income in curbing the alleged nuisance.

After hearing both sides as presented Saturday, the board passed an order giving the company six months' time in which to stop the drainage of waste from its plant into the water courses of the county and covering other features of the question. The order, which appears in full elsewhere in this issue, was introduced by W. W. Whitaker and was seconded by W. V. Horton. A roll call showed Whitaker, Smith and James favoring its passage and Mattingly against its adoption. Supervisor Smith was absent.

On motion of W. W. Whitaker, seconded by W. V. Horton, it is hereby ordered by the board of supervisors that (1) the Ayer & Lord Tie Company take whatever steps that are necessary to prevent dumping of creosote waste and other timber treating waste from their plant and yard into Bogue Creek in Grenada county; (2) that 6 months beginning with this date, be given the Ayer & Lord Tie Co. to complete the work necessary to obey the above order; and (3) that these actions by the board of supervisors, are not to be considered in any way as relieving the Ayer & Lord Tie Co. of liability for any harmful things that may have been caused in the past by the escape of harmful substances from their plant into the water courses of Grenada county. Ordered further that the Clerk of the board at once furnish the local superintendent of the Ayer & Lord Tie Co. a certified copy of this order. Whitaker, Horton and James voting "Yes". Mattingly voting "No", and B. W. Smith being absent and not voting. This the 27th day of July, 1929.

IT HAD TO BE GOOD TO GET WHERE IT IS

Moving Food by Rail

The railroads of the United States annually transport one carload of perishable foodstuffs for every seventy-five persons in the country, on the average, and the movement is growing every year.

The benefits of this service are far-reaching. For one thing, it greatly increases our food resources. Many foodstuffs that can be successfully produced only in certain localities are transported great distances to places where otherwise they could rarely or never be had. Other foodstuffs, such as fresh vegetables, which are in season locally for but a short period of the year are brought to our tables from distant regions at other times, thus making them virtually year-round articles of diet. This broadening of the nation's food supply has been instrumental in raising our standards of living and making for better health.

This service also is farm relief of the most practical kind. It increases the farmer's sources of income by enabling him to go in for crops that otherwise could not be marketed. It also enables him to get better prices for such crops, since they can be shipped to the most favorable markets, regardless of distance. The fact is that for real aid to the farmer the transportation provided by the railroads for both perishable and non-perishable farm products can scarcely be outclassed.

These benefits are typical of the outstanding value of railway service as a national asset. The protection of this asset is one reason for patronage of the railroads and for helpful public policies in matters of their welfare.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

Lesson for August 4

BELSHAZZAR'S FEAST

Temperance Lesson.

LESSON TEXT—Daniel 5:1-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess.
PRIMARY TOPIC—What Wine Leads To.
JUNIOR TOPIC—What Drink Leads To.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Drink Leads To.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Reveling and Ruin.

I. Belshazzar's Impious Feast (vv. 1-4).

1. The attendants (vv. 1, 2). Belshazzar, his wife and concubines and a thousand of his lords.
2. Their behavior (vv. 3, 4). (1) They drank wine; they engaged in revelry. (2) They committed sacrilege, drinking wine out of the sacred vessels taken from the temple at Jerusalem. (3) They worshipped idols, gods of gold, silver, brass, iron, wood and stone.
II. The Handwriting on the Wall (vv. 5-16).

1. The time of (v. 5). It occurred in the same hour in which they were engaged in their drunken revelry.
2. The effect upon the king (v. 6). He was seized with consternation.

3. The king's behavior (vv. 7-16). (1) He called forth astrologers and soothsayers, offering rich rewards (vv. 7-9). Their utter inability to interpret the writing left the king even more perplexed.
(2) Daniel brought in at the suggestion of the queen (vv. 10-16). The queen reminded the king of Daniel's service to Nebuchadnezzar. He was sent for and promised great reward.

III. Daniel Interprets the Writing (vv. 17-28).

1. Daniel's address to the king (vv. 17-24).

(1) He brushes aside the promised gifts (v. 17). He would not have his speech limited by the king's gifts.
(2) He reviewed before him the history of Nebuchadnezzar and applied the lesson to the behavior of Belshazzar (vv. 18-24), showing that Belshazzar should have profited by the experience of his father.

2. The interpretation of the writing (vv. 25-28).
(1) "Mene" means "numbered" (v. 26). "God hath numbered thy kingdom and finished it."
(2) "Tekel" means "weighed" (v. 27). "Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting."
(3) "Peres" means "divided" (v. 28). "Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians."

IV. The Judgment Executed (vv. 29-31).

In that night was Belshazzar slain and Darius the Median took the kingdom.

The Chaldean dynasty ended with Belshazzar. So we may interpret this whole scene as pointing to the conditions at the close of the times of the Gentiles, and as foreshadowing the prevailing conditions. Let us note:

1. The stupidity of men. They, like people today, would not learn by example. Nebuchadnezzar's fate should have deterred Belshazzar from such frivolity.

2. The magnificent splendor. This great feast was characterized by pomp, display, parade. How characteristic of this age!

3. Luxury. The famous hanging gardens of Babylon were a noteworthy example. Signs of luxury today are on every hand.

4. The licentiousness of the king with his wives and concubines. Licentiousness is notoriously prevalent today.

5. Blasphemous sacrilege. And may not the sacrilege of today be in excess of theirs, expressing itself in (1) a profession of religion for pecuniary gain, social and political preferment; (2) use of the pulpit and of the ministry for display and notoriety, even for the propagation of false doctrine; (3) union with the church, attendance on the communion, so as to cover up secret sins; (4) the use of the Word of God to give point to a joke; (5) denying that the Bible is God's Word, making it a book of errors, myths and legends; (6) sneering at the virgin birth, repudiating Christ's deity and setting aside His vicarious atonement.

6. Drunken carousals. The handwriting is on the wall. God will not endure this forever; His judgment shall fall. Conditions in the world indicate that the time is drawing near. Are you ready?

THE TIE PLANT, THE FISH AND SUPERVISORS.

The Sentinel is not undertaking to advise in what we purpose to say in this editorial. The question of the oft-repeated charge that waste creosote from the Tie Plant is and has been polluting the waters of the Yalobusha river to the extent that many fish have been killed because of it, and further, that some of the forage for horses and cows has been destroyed was recently again brought before the board of supervisors at the July meeting by citizens living west of Grenada. The board at a special meeting held last Saturday passed an order which seeks to require the Tie Plant officials to keep the creosote out of Bogue Creek from which it finds its way into Yalobusha river. Six months are given in which to do obey the board's order.

Now we feel that there is no disposition upon the part of these complaining citizens to penalize Tie Plant. They believe that science, together with the wisdom and splendid business acumen of Ayer & Lord officials, will find a way to keep the creosote out of the river. We are confident that the supervisors felt they were but doing their sworn duty in taking the affirmative action that was taken. These complaining citizens exercised an inalienable right of appeal when they petitioned the supervisors. They took no drastic action.

The Sentinel is also advised that Dr. Frank H. Smith of Greenwood, accompanied by several other Le-flore county citizens, was before the board to urge what was done, and that he stated he represented a number of interested ones at Greenwood who were going to appeal to the Federal government at Washington City if the supervisors did not take action. Dr. Smith is a former Grenadian.

We understand, too, that at the July meeting of the board the personal assessment of the Ayer & Lord property was increased, in round figures, about $40,000. At the same meeting when this was done, the assessment of many other citizens was increased, and on some, the increase was rather heavy. We know nothing about the accuracy and the fairness of the assessment, but if the increase is not just and equitable, we feel sure that the Tie Plant officials will have no trouble in convincing the supervisors of this fact.

We think it is the policy of the board, and has been for a number of years to assess property of the county at about 70 per cent of its value. As we understand, both the Illinois Central Railroad and the Ayer & Lord Tie Co. own property at the plant. It is not, as we have understood, a joint ownership. It seems to us that there should be very little trouble for company officials, if they object to the increased assessment, to name item by item what property Ayer & Lord owns and what the railroad owns, and to make proof of values.

Now this is merely suggestive. It is done with the hope of at least pointing an easy way for the Tie Plant and the board to find a common ground of understanding. We are confident that the order increasing the assessment of Tie Plant is in no wise connected with the complaint about the pollution of the waters of the rivers, and that it would have been passed had the complaining citizens not brought the charge of fish-killing to the attention of the board.

Grenada and Grenada county have exhibited for these years the most friendly attitude towards Tie Plant. They still feel that way. The people of the county place a high value on the integrity and fair-mindedness of the Tie Plant officials. The entire make-up of Tie Plant citizenship is of a high order. The citizenship of the county knows that an enterprise of the magnitude of Tie Plant means a very great deal to the business life, not only of this county, but of this entire section.

In the light of the facts, and in view of all that has heretofore transpired, we want to say in all earnestness to our Tie Plant friends, that, in our judgment, they would do themselves an injustice and the county, too, by interpreting the action of the board in increasing their assessment as an unfriendly one. Regardless of the merits of the issue involved, it would hardly be fair to the people of Grenada county for Tie Plant to allow one act to mar the twenty-five years of friendly attitude of the county.

It is not fair to any man to judge him by one act, and few there be of any of us who would not suffer if we were to be measured by one act alone.

IN THE AIR 17 DAYS.

Lindbergh startled the world when he flew across the Atlantic Ocean alone. Others have crossed in airplanes but nobody besides Lindbergh has made the flight alone.

Today the air is full of flying machines. Undaunted and unafraid youth is riding. They are showing the world things that would have been laughed to scorn a quarter of a century ago.

Just now endurance flights are holding the spotlight. There are many reasons for this. The chief one is that it may be known how to construct engines that move airplanes, engines that will endure and that will function from day to day.

The world applauds the performance of the St. Robin with "Red" Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine at its control. They remained in the air 17 days, 12 hours and 20 minutes. This endurance test nearly doubled the time any others have remained in the air. The machine might have remained up longer had the man sponsoring the flight not ordered the men to come down. The idea was that it was best to come while coming was good, and to make sure of no mishap.

It was a great battle these two men went through. The quality of the endurance of Jackson and O'Brine is that which man has ever shown when the hour demanded it. It is an exhibition of that valor and that endurance that made this country a Nation and that has kept it to the forefront in progress and that makes it the Uncle of all the world today.

Hats off to "Red" Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine.

BISHOP CANNON IN A TANGLED WEB.

If the reports by the Associated Press which have been appearing in the daily newspapers within the past week are correct, it is evident that Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the M. E. Church, South, has woven a tangled web for himself, and has besmirched the great office he holds in his church while at the same time making many loyal Methodists shame-faced as they realize that one of their Bishops has prostituted his position for personal glory and the attainment of certain ends by most questionable means.

Now comes a prominent Methodist minister who states over his signature that Bishop Cannon used church funds to aid him in his anti-Smith campaign last fall. The Bishop admits having used the funds but states that they were returned. But pray, what right did he have to use the funds for that purpose or for any other purpose other than that which the church ordained and for which the thousands of Methodists all over the South thought the money was to be used when they responded to "assessments" and turned their dough loose?

Will the Bishop's acts warrant the laymen of the church in wanting more specific bills of particulars when they are asked to pay "assessments" for so and so? If the Bishop made use of these funds for what he did, how does the church at large know that he has not done likewise many times before? If Bishop Cannon is so august that he can pervert church funds, even for a while, how does the rank and file of the church know that other Bishops have not done likewise? All these questions naturally arise out of Bishop Cannon's abuse of power.

Many a bank official has found his way to prison because of the fact he "borrowed" some of the funds of the bank without the knowledge of the other bank officials. The man who acts the superman with trust funds sets a precedent that is bad for the youth and that may cause the downfall of many well intentioned men. "If a bishop can do this sort of a thing then why not I?" is a perfectly natural inquiry by the less thoughtful.

The Bishop has toyed with church funds. He has played the game of speculator with a New York "bucket shop". If he has been expected to exercise a guardianship over the spiritual life of his church for which he is drawing an annual salary of $6,000, then he appears to have woefully neglected his duties to the Master and the church which gave him a place of great power, to roam with politicians.

A news story from Washington City, of July 30, purports to show something of what money Bishop Cannon used while playing politician last fall, and states that congress is going to investigate the money-spending of the Bishop in politics in Virginia. Good. Let the probe go deep and it should look into activities of others in other states who have, though in a smaller way, played the same role Bishop Cannon played.

What the Bishop's convictions were as to the issues of the last campaign is a matter with which we have naught to do. He has that inalienable right of every American citizen to think as he pleases and to assert his convictions on proper occasions. But there is a very wide distinction between what James Cannon, Jr., does and what Bishop James Cannon, Jr., does. From President Hoover's public pronouncements as they relate to church and state, we would say that he endorses the spirit and the purpose of what we are trying to state.

To assert that the newspaper articles about the Bishop's bucket shop speculations and the misuse of church funds are being published because the "whiskey interests" are flooding the newspapers with money, is the merest rot. Such allegations are made in instances through ignorance and sometimes because there are some educated to accept whatever is handed down from the higher-ups, but in most cases this defense is the cuttlefish act pure and simple.

THE HAND OF ESAU OFFERED EOUTH.

We have on our desk a lengthy "news story" from Washington City which touches on many things but which the discerning mind will at once recognize as a part of a plan to erect a protective tariff parlor which the tariff beneficiary spiders ask the South to enter. The hand of Jacob is outstretched but is hid under the pretended hair of Esau.

Helms News Service, Inc., 306-07 International Building, sponsors the stuff. It is nothing less than paid propaganda in the interest of the tariff barons, a crowd which has been allowed to rob the many for the few.

Compliments are given those agricultural commissioners, who should be more properly called political upstarts, who got together some weeks ago and resolved about the South's need of a protective tariff. These toad heads pretended to be speaking the voice of their people, which is as far from the truth as the East is from the West.

"The cotton farmer of the South presents the greatest tragedy" says the article. There is more truth in that statement than in anything else carried in the story. But who is responsible for the "tragedy"? Why, none other than those who are manifesting such solicitude for the farmer in the hope that they can pull the wool over his eyes long enough to still further filch his pockets.

The sop is thrown out that if a tariff can be placed on vegetable oil, $8. per ton will be added to the value of cotton seed, thereby increasing the total value of the cotton seed crop of the South $46,000,000 annually. Maybe so. Since so many others have their hands up to their arm pits in the public treasury, it would be like sorter balancing things, under all conditions, to discourage importations of substitute oils by tariff walling them. Yet we wonder how much of the eight dollars the farmer would ever see (?). The farmer, about his cotton seed, like everything else he sells, must accept what the buyer offers him at the buyer's weights. We hear it said sometimes that the oil mills have the territory parcelled out and that each and every mill knows what the other is going to pay for seed on a particular day. We do not know about this. But we do know that the farmer is being kicked in his bread basket in front and in the gable end of his trousers on the rear.

"The tariff is not a political question; it is purely an economic one," says the Helms News Service. In a measure this is true. The tariff serves to once again prove that most of us are blind when self-interest is involved. Naturally those who have been receiving favors through the tariff at the expense of others not only want the tariff retained, but want the rates increased.

As one of the many proofs that the manufacturing sections of the country have been greatly favored by the tariff, the finances of these sections do not ebb and flow as do those of the South and West where farming and stock raising are the main reliance, for earning a livelihood. Between 1921 and 1925, when a financial cyclone was rocking the country to its very foundations, there were but 13 bank failures in the New England states, only 32 in the Middle Atlantic states, which includes New York and Pennsylvania, while there were 583 in the cotton South and 1575 in the farming grain states of the West. The New England and Middle Atlantic states had piled up enough because of the tariff and other governmental favors to make them strong enough to weather the storm. Those states profited by the financial adversities of the other sections. But "that's business"—20th century business.

We are asked to increase tariff rates so that American manufacturers may compete with foreign manufacturers where labor is so much cheaper, yet this country sold in foreign countries in 1928, in competition with this dreaded "cheap labor", over five and one quarter billion dollars worth of goods. A large per cent of our manufactured goods are sold cheaper abroad than they are at home.

This Helms News Service says that the Democrats are not following the paths mapped out by Madison, Jefferson and Jackson as to protection. This statement is either made through ignorance or with the purpose of deceiving and defrauding.

They might just have truthfully stated that Henry Watterson, John G. Carlisle, Samuel J. Tilden, Allen G. Thurman, Thomas H. Hendricks, L. Q. C. Lamar, Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson were rank high tariff men. No sensible man, nor has there ever been a leading Democrat to, take such a stand, opposes a tariff for revenue.

The agricultural commissioner muttonheads who have allowed themselves to be made a party to try to hoodwink the farmer and to place the South in the attitude of bowing to Baal, should be taken away out in the woods and taught something.

BISHOP CANNON AND THE PRESS.

The Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Church, South, yesterday at Lake Junaluska expressed its confidence in the leadership of its Chairman, Bishop James Cannon, Jr. That was entirely proper; Bishop Cannon is a sincere and able leader of the dry forces.

Going farther, the board said that recent newspaper "attacks" upon Bishop Cannon had been instigated by the enemies of prohibition. As to these assaults the members are "fully convinced that the attacks upon Bishop Cannon, in which practically the entire wet press is engaged with evident unanimity, have been instigated by the enemies of prohibition with the purpose of discrediting a great and influential leader of prohibition forces of the nation."

It is respectfully submitted that the language of the resolutions bearing upon these attacks by the wet press was chosen without discrimination.

No Bishop, The Times is persuaded, no Bishop wet or dry, could engage in marginal speculation in Wall Street, losing $2,500 in a bucket shop bankruptcy, without the press, wet and dry, finding in the facts a story unusual and interesting. It was also a news story rich in material for a variety of press comment.

In this connection the Board of Temperance and Social Service may also recall that there has been some Methodist pulpit comment upon the Bishop's financial affairs, one minister calling upon the Bishop to resign. Is this, too, due to the instigation of the Devil?

Had Bishop Cannon been unknown in politics, his Wall Street experiences would still have been real news. His prominence in the realm political as well as the realm spiritual, inevitably enhanced the interest of the bucket shop matter.

The fact that a bishop goes to church on Sunday and preaches a good sermon is just an ordinary news item.

When a bishop also goes into a presidential campaign, charging the nominee of his party with a betrayal of democratic principles, that is a very live news story.

If that same bishop engages in rather extensive, well-planned and effective stock speculations, and on top of it comes a fiscal grief through the indictment of his brokers for fraud, it needs no wicked conspiracy of the enemies of prohibition to find in these latter doings all the material for legitimate news and for editorial comment.

By adding an illogical and vaguely worded condemnation of the press to its expression of confidence in Bishop Cannon, the Board of Temperance and Social Service did not strengthen its resolutions; it weakened them.

If there is an issue in the Bishop's adventure in Wall Street, these resolutions becloud the issue. For it is nothing more than natural and proper for the press and the people to discuss the political and bucket shop experiences of Bishop Cannon.—Asheville (N. C.) Times

ENGLAND'S TEXTILE MILL STRIKE.

Workers in 1600 textile mills in England are on a strike. 500,000 workmen have refused to give their assent to a reduction of $1.25 per week for men and 75 cents for women. The men in these mills get $11.50 per week and the women $7.50.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald states that such things are to be expected of the industrial organization of the present, and that "What may be called social materialism is growing vigorously and during the next 10 years it will become increasingly a problem for those who care about individual liberty."

The Clarion-Ledger states that the expense of the present legislature up to July 29 since the induction of Gov. Bilbo into office is $501,989.98.

There were 12,908 aliens deported by the government during the fiscal year ending June 30, which cost the United States $926,040, or an average of $71. per head.

The U. S. Comptroller General has declined to pay medical bills made by army officers while on leave of absence.

Class I railroads, according to the report of the Interstate Commerce Commission, earned for the first five months of this year, $2,531,371,753, and for the same period the operating expenses were $1,864,233,007 or a net profit for that period of $667,138,746.

The delightful Mr. Sabatini, the Italian with an English mother, whose education has permitted him to enrich English literature with the art and romance of his Latin heritage, here turns his genius into its most agreeable channel. "I got a package of Theodor's Black-Draught at the store and began taking it a dose every night before going to bed. I had been having an awful pain after I had taken Black-Draught, this pain entirely stopped. I began to gain in weight, and rested well at night. In a few months was feeling fine. Tea for Guests.

One of the loveliest affairs of the mid-summer season was a tea given Monday afternoon from 5 to 6 by Miss Thelma Jackson for her attractive house guests, Miss Elizabeth Capps and Miss Annie Clay Rhine.

The handsome Jackson home was the scene of the gathering. Garden flowers artistically arranged formed a beautiful setting for the receiving line in the living room.

Miss Mary Ida Sharp greeted the guests as they arrived.

Misses Bay Grant and Isabel Bailey presided over the punch bowl which was surrounded by a pretty arrangement of flowers. After the guests had partaken of the refreshing punch they were presented to Miss Jackson, who was lovely in a blue organdy trimmed with pink, and to the honorees, Miss Capps and Miss Rhine, who were becomingly gowned in pink chiffon and black and white organdy. Receiving with them were: Misses Mary Patton Wilkins, Elizabeth Garner, Louise Love, Shirley Vance, Allie Tucker Spain, Elizabeth Harris, Mary Louise McLeod and Hawley Knox.

Miss Ione Calhoun invited the guests into the dining room where a pink and white color motif was beautifully carried out. Delicious brick cream, cake and mints, all carrying out the color scheme, were served by Mrs. L. R. Lebetter, Mrs. Clarence Burt, Miss Adelaide Horton and Miss Marguerite Honeycutt. All those receiving and assisting were exquisitely gowned in pastel colored frocks.

Mrs. E. L. Wilkins entertained Tuesday afternoon with a six table bridge party in her home, honoring Miss Louise Love and Miss Elizabeth Garner, the attractive house guests of Miss Mary Patton Wilkins. A wealth of summer flowers added to the charm of the rooms thrown open for the games.

Besides the honorees there were present: Miss Mary Patton Wilkins and Messrs. Frank Gerard, Joe B. Williams, Edward Doty, John Sidney Sharp, Thomas Grant and Buster Sumrall.

Enjoyable Dance.

The dance at Glenwild Monday night was a most enjoyable affair. Everybody seemed reluctant to leave when the orchestra played "Home, Sweet Home" about 2:30 o'clock. The Mississippi Collegians furnished the music which was really all that the hardest to please could want or expect. Despite the fact that heavy rain prevented many out of town guests from attending, there was a good crowd. There were several attractive visitors in town for the dance, and they and the Grenada girls looked very charming in their lovely evening frocks.

Messrs. Fred Lickfold and Ira Parks sponsored the dance and they are due a great deal of credit for the splendid manner in which everything was conducted.

Why
Dodge Six
is eclipsing its entire field

The backbone of Dodge Six dependability, ruggedness, strength and long life is a structure of modern mechanical features that are bigger, stronger, more advanced and more efficient than those found in other cars that are sold at approximately the same price.

Nothing that you hear or read about the new Dodge Six could be more impressive than the facts and figures you will find in a Table of Comparative Specifications. For here is concrete evidence that in real value the new Dodge Brothers Six totally eclipses all others in its field.

Whoa, Boy! Head Us!

A group of gentlemen just the other day were discussing the unusually bright prospects for an abundant yield this year of cotton, corn and hay as well as other crops, when some one of the group asked:

"If the crops materialize as we hope what do you suppose will be done with the money for which they are sold?"

To which several answers were given; one was:

"Why, buy more luxuries" and another,

"No, I believe that people are beginning to think more seriously and that they will pay their debts out of crop proceeds---I may be mistaken, but that is what they ought to do".

It might be well for this pellmell, helterskelter day to think of the boy who yoked himself with the ox and when the ox ran wild dragging the lad hither and thither, he hol-lered "stop us, d--- fools".

Grenada and Grenada County have wonderful assets, but assets cannot be developed when our people are yoked with the Ox of Debt.

Scientists and those who ought to know by experience and otherwise say that minerals are beneath the surface of Mis-sissippi soil. This paper believes they are correct as time and toil will show.

THE BEAUTIFUL

DAMMED

Industries which persist in polluting streams when such pollution can be avoided are not only losing possible income from reclaimed products but are a drawback to the commercial activities of the community, according to a statement by Seth Gordon, Chicago, conservation director of the Izaak Walton League of America. The Walton League is conducting a nation-wide campaign against the pollution of public waterways.

Writing to me as president of the local chapter of the League, Mr. Gordon pointed out that new industries will not locate in a community when the stream water is badly polluted.

"More than one city has lost out in the struggle to secure more industries because the waters flowing by their gates were so rotten that they couldn't be used in their plants," he said. "Clean streams are a decided industrial asset, and Uncle Sam has reached the point where he won't stand for more and more of this poison being shot into his system. An enlightened public won't stand for an indefinite continuance of this attitude, and neighboring industries have reached the place where they also insist upon the other fellow taking care of his own wastes."

Mr. Gordon declared that owners of industrial plants soon become enthusiastic about clean streams when they are shown what it means to them.

"Certain industries, for years tried to make the public believe that they could not operate their plants economically if compelled to clean up the wastes they were dumping into the public waters," he said, "and the same industries fought all sorts of reforms looking toward better working conditions for their employees, but when forced to accept the inevitable they soon became enthusiastic exponents of the new day in industry."

"It will be the same in the matter of pollution. Many industries are spending large sums of money annually to develop suitable methods of treating their wastes. Many others are locating plants only where a copious supply of pure water is available because their mills can't use filthy water."

There is no one connected with this movement to purify our streams who would do anything to discourage industries from coming into our community. We are all working for the best interest of our city, county and state. Join us and help in this good work. The condition of our river is a disgrace to any community.

Respectfully,

S. H. HORTON.

Love or Death By Rafael Sabatini

The world is reading Sabatini and so may you. We have secured the above story from the pen of this talented Italian-Englishman, probably the most popular writer of the day, and equally at home in writing pure history or pure romance. It is a tale of the time when captains were also troubadours, expressing their hearts in song beneath the windows of dark-eyed beauties; when it was the custom, upon love or adventure bound, to go forth masked; when, two men meeting, it was a question whether plumed hats would be raised or swords would flash and when a gentleman without a dagger was not completely appalled for social occasions—a jolly old period which Sabatini knows so well how to reanimate.

The Printed Fame of Jenny Lind---

The thoroughness of Baranum's preparation in presenting "The Swedish Nightingale" to American music lovers has lasted more than seventy years.

The persistent use of attractive print made the public eager to see her long before her actual appearance. Forty thousand people met her steamer. Triumphant archways marked her path. People high in public and social life called on her. And all before they had ever heard her voice! Such is the power of the printed word. The golden magic of Jenny Lind's voice still lingers in the memories of old men and women who heard her. To the rest of us, her genius has come down, has lived and will live, through print.

The right kind of print never fails to bring results to the right kind of product.
